StarLite[®] SM and Scorpion[®] SM: Finally, Safety Eyewear That Fits Women Better

10 Percent Smaller Than the Original StarLite[®] and Scorpion[®]

April 2010—Prevent Blindness America declares April as Women’s Eye Health and Safety Month, but Gateway Safety has long since been a pioneer in developing safety products tailored to the female worker. Specifically, Gateway Safety offers StarLite[®] SM and Scorpion[®] SM, smaller-size safety eyewear designed to fit women, as well as men with small or narrow faces.

Both StarLite SM and Scorpion SM provide all of the advantages of their “parent” designs, but are 10 percent smaller to achieve a correct, comfortable fit. Light in weight, yet incredibly durable, both styles offer exceptional impact protection, superior optical quality, and a fashionable design. With appropriately sized safety eyewear that won’t slide down or fall off, workers are less likely to remove their eye protection and risk injury. StarLite SM and Scorpion SM meet or exceed the ANSI Z87.1+ standard. The scratch-resistant polycarbonate lenses also filter out more than 99.9 percent of harmful UV-A and UV-B rays.

StarLite SM features the same lightweight, popular design as the original, permitting wide, unobstructed vision. Deep, universal-fit temples provide as much side protection as large side shields. Lenses are available in Clear, Gray, Amber, Pacific Blue, Clear Anti-Fog, Clear Indoor/Outdoor Mirror, Silver Mirror, and Blue Mirror.

Scorpion SM, loaded with features, has adjustable-length, four-position ratcheting temples for a custom fit. A soft fingertip nosepiece helps prevent slipping, even in hot work environments, while a venting system between the frame and lens helps minimize fogging. Lens options include Clear, Gray, Clear Anti-Fog, Clear Indoor/Outdoor Mirror, and Silver Mirror.
